

Everyone has an opinion.

Why not get rewarded for yours?

Join The Washington Post Reader Leaders—a new sounding board of Post newspaper readers—and get rewards just for letting us know what you think. You don't have to be an expert. You just have to be a Post newspaper reader who enjoys being heard.

Reader Leaders will provide an important service by expressing opinions through online surveys that help The Post and its advertisers make marketplace decisions. (Did we mention you get rewards?)

So if you're a frequent reader of The Washington Post newspaper who's not afraid to express an opinion, be heard! Go to PostReaderLeaders.com and sign up today. It's that easy!
